

CHINA IS TO BLAME FOR THE MASSACREFOREIGN RESIDENTS CONDEMN
THE GOVERNMENT.

Death of the Missionaries Blamed on the Authorities Who Did Not Exercise Due Control—All the Victims Are Thought To Have Been British Subjects.

Shanghai, August 5.—Foreign residents are holding a big meeting today, condemning the action of the Chinese authorities in the case of the massacred missionaries.

London, Aug. 5.—A Shanghai dispatch says the British subjects killed at Whai Han were:

REV. MR. STEWART.
HIS WIFE AND CHILD.
MISS YELLOW.

MISS MARSHALL.
TWO MISS SAUNDERS.
TWO MISS GORDON.

MISS STEETIE NEWCOMBE.
The following were wounded:

Miss Codrington.
Rev. Mr. Stewart's two children.
Rev. Mr. Phillips.

Dr. Gregory, an American.
Miss Mabel C. Hartford, an American.

Rev. Mr. Stewart, wife, and child were burned in their house. Misses Yellow and Marshall, two sisters named Saunders, two sisters named Gordon, and Steetie Newcombe were murdered with spears and swords. Miss Codrington was seriously wounded about the head and Mr. Stewart's eldest child had a knee-cap badly injured, while the youngest had an eye gouged out. Rev. Mr. Phillips, with two Americans, Dr. Gregory and Miss Hartford, who were wounded, arrived safely at Fu Chan Fu. The Prefect of Cheng Fu, who was on the inquiry commission, is seriously implicated in the Cheng Fu outrages.

J. Courtney Hixson, the American consul at Fu Chan, with several volunteers, went to the scene in a steam launch and brought back the wounded

Americans. "Their experiences," the dispatch continues, "were terrible, and death was the least part of the sufferings of the butchered women. The indignation here is intense. The mandarins will endeavor to throw all the blame upon the secret societies, but it is known that they were encouraged by responsible officials. The Chinese are revealing their old tactics of cutting telegraphic communication."

Another Fu Chan telegram received here says that all the murdered ladies belonged to the Church of England, Zenanan Mission. Miss Hartwell

(Hartford) was fearfully injured and bears evidence of the fearful treatment and cruelty she received at the hands of the mob. Several English and American children have been killed.

The massacre commenced early Thursday at Whai Han, near Ku Chen. The houses were fired and eight ladies, a man, and a child were killed and several were wounded, two probably mortally.

Chinese troops have been dispatched to the scene. The British and American consuls will have an interview with the viceroy.

The Times comments editorially on the massacre as follows: "The Ku

Cheng outrages will justify form the subject of strong representations to China by England and probably by America, also. It is quite possible that the outrages are due to the embittered feeling against foreigners engendered by the calamities of the war, and that the mandarins believe that a blow must be struck now or never to frighten foreigners against availing themselves of the concessions granted under the recent China-Japanese treaty."

A two-column from Hankau, on the mission outrages, published by the Times, declares that officials are at the bottom of all anti-foreign feeling and that the Chinese people themselves are quite friendly. The letter suggests that if the powers tried a little benevolent retaliation it would prove an infallible cure.

The Standard, in its editorial on the Ku Cheng outrages, says: "We must speak to China in a manner which cannot be misunderstood. Not only the murderers be punished, but a thorough example must be made of the officials whose neglect permits such outrages."

Hong Kong, Aug. 5.—All those who were killed are British. There was no provocation for the outrages. The perpetrators were the Vegetarians' society.

"ZIP" WYATT CAPTURED.

Daring Western Outlaw at Last in the Officers' Hands.

Wichita, Kan., Aug. 5.—"Zip" Wyatt, alias Dick Yeager, the intrepid leader of the murderous band of outlaws that sprung up in Oklahoma territory immediately after the extermination of the famous Dalton gang, was captured ten miles east of Sheridan yesterday, after one of the fiercest fights that has ever occurred in the Oklahoma country. As nearly as can be estimated there are still about twenty outlaws at large and the vigilance of their pursuers will not be relaxed on account of yesterday's important capture. The death knell of outlawry in the territory has been sounded and it is confidently expected that the entire band will be wiped out within a very short time.

Slay 500 Turks.

Constantinople, Aug. 5.—It is reported that a severe engagement has taken place with Macedonian insurgents near Strumitza, in which the Turks lost 500 killed and wounded, and the insurgents lost 100 wounded, all of whom were placed in the hospital at Salonica.

Will Pay the Increase.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 5.—The Weybossett Mills have given notice that they will pay the 7 per cent increase in wages decided on by the other Olneyville mills, beginning to-day. The Saxons are now the only Providence mill which has not granted an increase.

ITALIAN MOB SHOT TO KILL.

Revenge Sought for the Murder of a Miner—Authorities Said To Be Negligent.

Princeton, Ill., Aug. 5.—The negro settlement two miles west of Spring

Valley, known as the "third shaft colony," together with the immediate vicinity, presented a sad scene. Families are broken up and scattered among the surrounding hills and the trees offer the only covering for many victims of a race riot who are shattered almost to death. A list of those seriously injured follows:

Granville Lewis, aged 45; may die.

Clem L. Martin, aged 32; seriously injured.

Norman Bird, aged 38, shot in neck and head.

Mrs. Bird, aged 31, wife of above; will probably die.

Maria Bird, aged 14, daughter of above; shot in breast; wound may prove fatal.

William Lee, aged 34; kicked and trampled upon.

Jube Steritt, aged 47; trampled upon, face lacerated, and injured internally.

Oscar Prim; head bruised with rocks and stones.

Silas Burden; bruised with clubs and shot at about thirty times.

Jude Stuart; eight teeth knocked out and bad wound on head from a club.

James Kelley, aged 26; flesh wounds and clothing riddled with shot.

Will Beck, aged 30; badly bruised and internal injuries.

Frank Turner, aged 28; shot twice in back of head and struck in back and shoulders with about forty buckshot.

Frank Burner; head badly bruised; body also trampled upon and internal injuries received.

At 10 o'clock in the morning over three hundred Italian miners marched out of Spring Valley, headed by the Spring Valley Italian band, and with music playing made their way direct to the negro village for the ostensible purpose of avenging the murder of one of their fellow countrymen. The column proceeded slowly, and the band rendered several national anthems. The negroes, who had been warned of the intended onslaught of the Italians, were deceived by the appearance of the band, and many who had intended to flee before the mob felt induced to remain. The column halted in front of a saloon in the immediate neighborhood, where a line of attack was formed, and the Italians poured through the village firing guns and beating the negroes right and left. As each house was reached the rioters smashed the windows, and where doors were locked they broke them down. The interiors were ransacked, the women insulted, and the men dragged forth, clubbed and shot.

The raid upon the negroes had been contemplated for several weeks. In fact, ever since the negroes were imported into Spring Valley at the close of the three months' strike last summer there has been bad feeling.

During the last few weeks the negroes have quarreled a great deal among themselves and several shooting affrays have been the result. Saturday night an Italian named Barni Rulli was held up, robbed of $30 in money and a gold watch. In addition the highwaymen opened fire upon him, sending one ball through his abdomen and another through his thigh. The physicians say Rulli cannot live. The shooting gave the Italians the long cherished chance to make an effort to drive the negroes out of town. Upon reaching the negro village the members of the mob acted as so many fiends. At the home of Norman Bird he and his wife and little daughter were just getting up from the breakfast table when the Italians rushed in the front door. Mr. Bird was struck over the head with a club, and felled to the floor. Upon getting up he was repeatedly struck, and finally kicked out of the door. As he ran he was struck by a rifle ball, but succeeded in making his escape. His injuries are considered dangerous. Mrs.

Bird, with her daughter, fled through the back door, but was pursued by members of the infuriated mob. She was overtaken, and shot and trampled down. Previous to this treatment she was in a delicate condition, and complications have now arisen which physicians say will cause her death within a few hours. The little girl, Maria, fled down the hill, but was shot in the back by a ball from a revolver, and it is feared she is fatally wounded.

The Italian rioters served notice yesterday on the women and children who had not been driven out that they and the invalids would be given until the night to leave the town forever, and that if they were not gone by dark they would be shot down in their tracks. Large numbers started out in the direction of Toluca and others have taken refuge at Seatonville. Of those who are uninjured about thirty have gathered at Seatonville, and have been collecting arms and ammunition, and say they will at all hazards return to Spring Valley and remain there until they are discharged from the services of the coal company. Some have homes there, and all have wages due them from the coal company. This resolution of the negroes has created considerable apprehension, and more trouble is expected if it should be carried out.

When the rioters were organizing near the city hall the mayor was notified of the threatened trouble by a group of citizens, to whom he replied that it was no use for him to try to do anything. Sheriff Clark at Princeton went to the scene of the trouble with only a dozen men. The negroes asked that the protection he had given them so that they could return to their homes, but the sheriff referred them to the city authorities, and the latter, it is reported, have refused protection of any nature.

Hunters Cause an Avalanche.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 5.—Hunters returning from Crown mountain report that an avalanche has swept away the crown of the mountain. A party of explorers built a fire on the peak which thawed the frozen ground and caused the avalanche.

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—Capt. Jamison, one of the present commanders of the American line fleet, has been selected to command the new steamer St. Paul when she goes into service between New York and Southampton in October.

DIED IN THE CHAIR
FOR WIFE MURDERRICHARD LEACH EXECUTED
THIS FORENOON.

Fatal Shock Administered in the Penitentiary at Sing Sing—Auburn's Gates Open To Let Out a Man Who Served Ten Years For Another's Crime.

Sing Sing, New York, Aug. 5.—Richard Leach, the wife murderer, was electrocuted at 11 o'clock today.

Auburn, N. Y., Aug. 5.—John Funnoli, an Italian, who was received at Auburn prison March 4, 1886, to serve a life sentence for killing a fellow

Italian at Utica, was released from the prison today on a special commutation granted by Gov. Flower before his term of office expired.

It appears that the guilty man was Funnoli's brother, who had a grudge against the murdered man and assaulted him. Efforts for a pardon were commenced in May, 1894, and in due course of time the brother was heard from and admitted his guilt. The innocent man will at once leave for New York, where his aged parents reside. He is now 38 years of age and in good physical condition.

Find Bloodstained Clothes.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Perhaps the most important evidence that Chief Badenoch has yet obtained against Holmes and his friend Quinlan was that secured yesterday, when officers found a pair of blood-stained overalls and a blood-stained undershirt. Both articles were picked up in the room occupied by Mrs. Julia O'Connor when she lived at "the castle." The clothes are supposed to be the property of either Holmes or Quinlan. To-day the police will see that Quinlan tries them on.

Joliet, Ill., Has a $50,000 Fire.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 5.—Fire broke out last night in the Lambert & Bishop wire mill, a branch of the Consolidated Steel and Wire company. The fire started in the spool department and burned the warehouse, carpenter shop, die-room, store house, and about $2,000 worth of spool lumber. The total loss was $53,000, with $45,000 insurance.

Iron-Works to Be Reopened.

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 5.—The enormous plant of the Pottsville Iron and Steel Company at this place will resume operations in about three weeks, after a practical idleness for many months. About 600 hands will be employed.

went out to remonstrate when he was stabbed twice below the heart. He may die. Charles Koser and Mrs. Koser went out and both were seriously cut. The police know the parties

HANG UP $650.

List of Events Made Out—All the Trophies Will Be Valuable—D. D.
Warner To Do the Handicapping—Bicycling Helps Railroads—Coming Events.

Bliss and Cooper, the Monarch racing team, have written to see if they can arrange to attend the state circuit meeting here August 29-30.

Hard work and fat prizes will make Janesville's bicycle meets success.
Riders from all parts of the country are expected. The local racing board has just completed its list, showing a total of $650. This is how it stands:

As will be seen by the list the prizes are not surpassed by those of any state meet given this year. There is little doubt that the Janesville track will see some of the fastest miles ever undertaken upon its course. The entry fee will be 10 but for each additional race a fee of twenty-five cents will be charged.

D. D. Warner Does the Handicapping.
The handicapping for the Janesville Circuit meet, will be done by the regular circuit handicapper, D. D. Warner, of Madison.

The entry blanks for the meet will soon be ready and can be had by applying to the secretary, Dr. C. T.
Peirce.

W. M. Pfennig has made a new mark by going a quarter of a mile in twenty-nine seconds, paced by Wheeler and Reynolds.

Ned Whiting and Edwin Halverson left early Saturday morning for Lake Geneva, returning home late in the evening, after having ridden ninety-four miles.

The majority of Janesville riders rode to Lake Koshkonong and Clear Lake yesterday, only a few going as far as Delavan.

F. Randall took a trip to Rockton yesterday where he spent the day.

T. M. Nolan took a spin through the country yesterday afternoon in the direction of Evansville, returning home in the evening.

A number of Madison and Evansville cyclists passed through the city yesterday on their way to Geneva and Delavan Lakes.

L. D. Glasen and H. Glasen two cyclists from Lake View, near Madison spent Sunday in the city, leaving at 9:30 this morning for home.

It is a curious fact that two of Janesville's best riders are severely handicapped physically. One has lost an arm but seems to get about as well as the average rider; while a one legged boy is the wonderment of the town. He goes around corners at a break neck speed and can pump his wheel too fast for some of the best of them.

Bicycles Help the Railroads.
"Talk about bicycles hurting railroad business" said a Northwestern conductor today. "Just look at the wheels in that car."

The wheels were picked up along the road from Evansville to Baraboo, all belonging to Sunday riders who started out to make a century, but found that tired feeling affecting them when it was time for the return trip. A great many this year instead of spending two weeks at a lake, have spent the time in a trip across the state, returning on the cars.

Most of the talk about the bicycle hurting different kinds of business, is moonshine. Wheels have really improved trade in many lines, but there is no doubt livermen have suffered.

Local bicycle dealers who rent wheels have established a scale of prices lately to suit themselves.

It is estimated that there are 2,500,000 bicyclists in the United States, and a firm has recently been started in New York City, with a capital of half a million dollars, to manufacture bicycle costumes.

A number of young cyclists took their best girls out on Milton avenue last evening, and attired in the latest costume, they managed to come down the avenue at a three minute clip.

One of the strong features of the Rock county fair will be the bicycle races, for which liberal prizes will be given. Leading riders from outside the county are expected to participate.

Walter Helms is discussing a scheme for the winter storage of wheels and quite a number of wheelmen have given him their support.

KNEE BREECHES ONCE MORE.

Bicycling May Bring Back the Old Fashion In Men's Garb.

"I expect to see knee breeches all the style before I die," said a business man as two middle-aged cyclists in bloomers shot by him this morning.
"If you will notice, the average bicycle tourist goes through the country carrying nothing but his riding costume. He appears in short pants at summer resort hops and picnics and his dress is considered perfectly suitable. If it is appropriate there why not in town?"

COULD BE EASILY IDENTIFIED.
All the Criminals At the Jail of Late Had Been Marked.

"In order to be a successful criminal, a man must be careful to have no physical defects," said an officer at the jail today. "All the people who are down here now could be spotted anywhere. A man with a notable peculiarity of any sort cannot escape detection long if he is a crook, and some are made honest by force of circumstances."

To Write Upon the Sea of Agony

Is what people troubled with rheumatic symptoms can fairly expect, if they take no efficient means to check the rapidly growing malady which, if should never be forgotten, has a tendency to attack the heart and terminate life.
The testimony, public and professional, is overwhelmingly convincing and con-cursant that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is both a sovereign preventive and curative of rheumatism. It completely expurgates from the blood the acid principle which, attacking the tissues surrounding the joints and muscles, causes such exquisite pain. The Bitters promotes the action of the kidneys, bladder, stomach and bowels, and remedies malaria, nervousness and debility. It also induces appetite and sound repose, hastens convalescence after exhausting maladies and mitigates the infirmities of age. Take it daily at regular intervals, and confidently expect the best of results.

ALL ENDEAVORERS READY TO REPORT

ARE VERY ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THEIR TREATMENT.

Programme For Tomorrow Evening's Rally Includes Addresses by Luella Barlow, John Harrington, F. A.
Spoon, Emma Paulson, Nettie A.
Harrington and E. May Clark.

The last of the representatives of this city at the great Boston convention arrived home Saturday evening. They are full of praise for that eastern city, yet seem glad to be home. Janesville people may consider themselves fortunate in having had so many delegates as they kindly consented to tell of their journeys tomorrow evening at the Baptist church. One of their number who has visited many former conventions says:

"This was by far the best yet. The subjects were far more practical, places of meetings better, and the general management, of course, was the best, Boston being the headquarters of the United Society. The citizens manifested a more cordial interest and sympathy than any former city. Every place of business spoke, through the red and white bunting and numerous flags, a hearty welcome, both to Boston and to its stores, historical places and fine public buildings. One old burying ground which had not been open for forty years, opened its gates and allowed us to tread its sacred ground. The home of James Russell Lowell was opened for visitors with Margaret Sylvester to welcome us. Aside from such great attractions the convention itself gave us the opportunity of hearing the greatest speakers of our own and other countries. Australia, England, Ireland, Scotland, Canada, Armenia, Alaska, Spain, Mexico Germany India, Bermuda, Japan, Persia, Africa and other countries contributed to the program. Among the list are names familiar to us all; this array together with such men as J. Wilbur, Chapman, Dwight L. Moody, also the leaders in the Christian Endeavor work from all over the world, bespoke addresses full of power and helpfulness to all privileged to hear. One thing which impressed us as much as anything was the fact that political men could talk about religious things as if they really were interested. Hon. Elijah Morse and Governor F. T. Greer-ham, made addresses full of helpfulness and good advice."

There will be enough in these reports of interest to the public to warrant those earnest Endeavorers a full-house tomorrow evening. The program is as follows:

"Our Journey".....Luella Barlow
"Impressions".....John Harrington
"Cardinal Principles of C. E.".....F. A. Spoon
"Christian Living".....Nettie E. Harrington
"Giving—What?".....May Clark
Music led by Christian Endeavor chorus....
In Janesville Churches.

The monthly business meeting of the Congregational Y. P. S. C. E. will be held this evening at the home of Miss Gertrude Cobb, 308 Center street.
A full attendance is desired.

A strong sermon on "The Sin of Moderate Drinking," was preached by Rev. A. Porter, of the First M. E. church, Sunday evening. Mr. Porter found no excuses for the men who beguile others to drunkenness by their own moderation."

Harry Ruger led the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon.

The Boys' Brigade of the Presbyterian church, has arranged an ice cream social, of which notice is given in another column.

Rev. Mr. Pence was welcomed to his pulpit yesterday after two weeks' absence. He preached in the morning on "The Self-Witnessed Christ" and in the evening on "Unsought Opportunities or a Philosophy For Hard Times."

Rev. S. Halsey received fifteen new members into Court Street M. E. church Sunday, and administered the sacrament of baptism.

A district Sunday school convention was held in the Charles Dresser grove southwest of Clinton near the state line Sunday. County Superintendent and Missionary H. N. Henry and J. T. Wright of this city were there and conducted the exercises.
The audience was not confined to Rock county many schools coming from Illinois. The singing in the open air was inspiring being accompanied by a fine orchestra. Frank Swingle spoke on "How to Increase Interest in the Work." David Throne took the theme
"There Is Work for All" and Mr.
Crockett "Why Make So Much Effort to Secure Attendance." J. T. Wright gave an object lesson with crayon illustrations. Mrs. Dresser read a paper on "The Value of Memorising Scriptures." Rev. Mr. Hollister missionary from India described the schools in that great country, showing how important to begin with the little boys and girls and in this way reach the older ones.

A similar gathering will be held next Sabbath, 11 inst., Avon. Spring Valley and Newark schools uniting.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB MAKE PLANS.

a Recent Meeting.

The Fortnightly club have selected the topic "Ethics of Citizenship in History, in Literature and in Problems of the Day" for the season of 1895-9, the choice being made at a business meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Helms, Friday evening. A committee on constitution, consisting of John J. Cunningham, William Smith and Rev. Victor E. Southworth, reported a new constitution which was adopted. Professor H. C. Buell, William Smith and John J. Cunningham were appointed a committee to provide for a series of extension lectures. Miss Phoebe Fish and Messrs. Walter Helms and C. V.
Kerch were appointed a committee to report on the advisability of leasing a hall, and it was decided to hold the next meeting Friday evening, October 4.

IN THE NEW COUNTRY.

Moving Day Has No Terrors for Oklahoma Women.

Moving day in Oklahoma has none of the terrors for the housekeeper that it brings to those who live in more conservative places, for there, very often, the house itself is carted away without even disturbing its mistress in her household occupations. It seems a little queer to look out of the window and see a house being taken along by trotting horses, while a woman is unconcernedly preparing the family meal over a hot cooking stove, but it is not an unusual spectacle down there. When nearby towns are laid out in new countries there is sure to be a duel between two of them, and one kills the other.
When a certain village becomes victorious the inhabitants of its opponent put their houses on wheels, hitch teams to them and join the enemy's forces, without taking the trouble to disturb their good wives.

Carried It with Him.

During a pedestrian trip a gentleman came unexpectedly upon a country race-course, and on one portion of the ground found a thimble being established in full work. Notwithstanding the remonstrances of his companions, the gentleman insisted upon watching the game.

"Now, would the gent like to wager a crown he could find the pea?" remarked the expert.

"Yes," was the reply. The money was on both sides deposited, and the pedestrian, lifting up the thimble, pointed out the required pea and took the stakes. A second and a third bet ended to the surprise of the expert; then a wager of £2 to nothing steadied the nerves of the loser, and the trick was accomplished with great caution. The gentleman lifted up the thimble, pointed out the pea, and pocketed the stakes.
"Sheep me! I didn't put it there!" exclaimed the bewildered artist.

"No; but I always carry my own pea," rejoined the man.

Knew His Business.

Wife—You told that gentleman you'd charge by the day for movin' his furniture. Why don't you charge by the load, like you used to?

Husband (a furniture mover)—That new horse is balky.

CLINTON SCOURGED BY A DIRE DISEASE

BLACK DIPHTHERIA CAUSES
SEVERAL DEATHS.

Victims Were Suddenly Stricken and Their Demise Followed in a Few Hours—Strictest Kind of Quarantine Regulations Are in Force—
Some Sufferers Getting Better.

Clinton is alarmed by black diphtheria and the strictest kind of quarantine regulations are in force. The first case of the disease was that of a Miss Wolf, who was suddenly stricken and died within a few hours. Another girl of the same family succumbed to the dread malady to the added terror of the inhabitants.

Miller Treat, a section employee is said to have been stricken with the disease late at night and died soon after. Mrs. Stone, wife of the proprietor of Stone's hotel, is stated to be a sufferer from the disease. Fears were entertained at first for her recovery, but later reports show her to be improving. Two female employees of Stone's hotel are the latest, and their recovery seems to be doubtful. Quarantine precautions were taken immediately on the discovery of the disease and patients are being isolated to prevent its spread.

J. E. Burgess Dies in La Prairie.

J. E. Burgess, of the town of La Prairie, gave up the struggle with diphtheria and closed his eyes in death at 8:10 o'clock yesterday morning, aged 22 years, one month and one day. Mr. Burgess' death was a peculiarly sad one. He was born and bred in Rock county, and for many years had been the stay and support of an invalid mother who is now left to mourn for the son who was all that a son should be. Mr. Burgess was first taken ill about two weeks ago and held his own for a time but then grew weaker and weaker until finally death ended
all. He leaves, beside his mother, one brother, Charles Mr. Burgess, of Larabee Iowa. The burial took place at the Emerald Grove cemetery at 8 o'clock last night and owing to the nature of the disease was strictly private.

LUCK FOR A CLOWN.

Stranded in Africa, He Soon Becomes a Multi-Millionaire.

Paris has a much-talked about king within its walls to-day, one whose subjects do him homage throughout the world of business, for the monarch is none other than Barnato, the king of mines, who at the lowest computation is worth 600,000,000 francs ($120,000,000). Twenty years ago a circus, which had traveled, goodness knows how, from England to South Africa, arrived at Kimberley. At that epoch Kimberley was not the diamond town that it has become since. The circus did poor business, and one morning the director and the directress fled, leaving the clown with two mules and 30 shillings in his pocket, which is not much in Europe, but which is still less at the Cape of Good Hope, says Evening Wisconsin. During a ride in the outskirts of Kimberley he found in the fields traces of diamonds; he took some stones, showed them to a miner, and, entering into partnership with him, went to sell them in the town. Then, without divulging his discovery, he bought the field where he had made his find, took out only a few stones for fear of arousing suspicion, bought other fields, and found himself at last a large landholder. When the first gold mines were discovered at Johannesburg, Mr. Barnato rushed there, bought as much land as he could find, organized societies in the London market, and became king of the mines. Now, Mr. Barnato lives in London and only goes to the Cape for the parliamentary sessions. He is a little man, about 45 years old, wearing a slight mustache. In his dress he is very simple, and behind a pincez mounted in gold (it is the only trace on his person of the metal king) he has two eyes of an incredible vivacity.

A BAD BREAK.

Made by an Inexperienced Undertaker at a Funeral.

An ex-governor of Massachusetts tells the following, illustrative of a calling for business: Two brothers had for many years done an undertaking business in a suburban town. The elder had a son, Thomas, and desiring to establish him in life, obtained from his younger brother a promise that Thomas should be taken into the business whenever he (the elder) should die. The promise was obtained, in spite of a feeling on the brother's part that Tom had no calling for the business. The elder soon died and Thomas became his uncle's partner. He made good progress and was soon sent to arrange for the funeral of a wealthy man who left as his chief mourner a widow who had already buried two husbands. The young man returned, having made satisfactory arrangements as to carriages, music, flowers, etc., much to his uncle's joy, who now felt that he had misjudged the boy. On the following day the uncle himself went to see that all was going smoothly and found Mrs. X. in high dudgeon. Expressing his regret and surprise, he told Mrs. X. that Tom had returned on the previous day with everything arranged apparently satisfactorily, and asked her what was the matter.

"Well," she replied, "Tom did very well until we discussed the time at which the services should be held. I had not quite made up my mind, when Tom, meaning to help me out, said: 'At what time have you been accustomed to bury your husbands, madam?'"

A Cucumber Flend.

An American baillif, whose weakness is for cucumbers, struck a store where the innocent-looking undertaker's assistants were on sale. Picking up one about the size of a coupling pin he asked the price.

"Two fer nick," was the brief reply of the up-to-date clerk.

"That's too much," replied the baillif. "Tell you what I'll do, though," he added. "I'll give you a dime to let me eat all I want."

The offer was accepted, and the baillif lit upon a peck measure of cucumbers, eating them ravenously. As one after another disappeared the grocer's boy became uneasy, and after the twelfth had disappeared, offered the baillif a quarter to stop.

"Well, I could eat a dozen or two more," he replied, looking longingly at the half-filled peck measure, "but being as it's you, I'll call the trade off." And, pocketing the quarter, he ambled away in search of another victim. — Atlanta Constitution.

Trickery.

This is the season of the year in which married women who have been drudging for a year make up their minds that they need a rest and lay plans to spend a month in the country.

This is also the season of the year in which married men induce friends to write anonymous letters to the wives who have been drudging for them for a year, which read as follows:

"You will take the advice of a friend who is interested in your welfare and not go to the country this summer. A word to the wise is sufficient. Your husband will be only too glad to see you go. Watch him."

It's a mean trick, but it works.

No Aquariums Served.

"This hasn't a sign of clam in it," said the guest who had ordered clam chowder. "It's a swindle, that's what it is."

"Excuse me, sir," responded the waiter, who is too good for that business, "but we only undertake to serve a chowder, not an aquarium."

WEST WILL DECIDE.

As the national conventions are likely to be held in the early part of June, they are only ten months away. Six or seven months hence the country will have to begin to tackle the candidacy problem seriously.

Just now the matter is in the hands of politicians. They seem to agree that if the convention were held tomorrow Thomas B. Reed would have the advantage on the first ballot. It must be remembered, however, that Reed's chances depend on the west. New York will be committed to Morton, at least to the extent of giving him a complimentary vote or two. New Jersey may also support Morton. Pennsylvania sometimes has, at the start, a favorite son of her own who has not the faintest chance of getting the candidacy, as did the first-class man Hartant in 1876, and the fifth-class man Eitler in 1888. The Quay-Hastings feud may or may not keep Hastings named out of the convention, but the sentiment of Pennsylvania, as between the great aspirants, is probably with McKinley, Indiana for Harrison, and Iowa for Allison, but a dozen or more western states are still fancy free. The man Reed or McKinley, who gains the affections of a majority of these will start out in the convention with an advantage over his rivals.

There are stories that Harrison, through his old office-holders, will secure a majority of the delegates from the south, but it is entirely safe to say that Harrison will not start out in the convention with any such strength as this, whatever potency he may develop later. The west will be the real battleground in the convention, and the attitude of the west, as between Reed and McKinley, is still uncertain.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD.

Crop prospects continue favorable, and in general business the outlook grows brighter. The production of pig iron in the first half of 1895 was 4,087,558 tons, as compared with only 2,717,983 in the same time in 1894. As the output is, in normal years, always greater in the second half of the year than in the first half, the figures from July 1 to December 31, 1895, are likely to very closely approach if they do not actually pass the highest mark ever touched in this country in six months. In the other great fields of industry, metal and textile, the activity is fully up to the average of the two or three years immediately preceding the panic.

An English magazine says the British bicycle manufacturers are losing their American trade, and there is even talk of the appearance of American bicycles in the English market. The apprehension is well founded, for the Yankee inventor nineteen times in twenty radically improves every machine that he takes in hand.

The fire loss of the United States amounts to one-fifth of the net profits of all the industries of the country. The insurance money paid in America is about one-half of the total throughout the world. This is chiefly pure waste and no reasonable excuse can be found for it.

Two new battle ships are almost ready and there will be more launched in a year. Uncle Sam's navy is getting in good shape for business, which is the best way to insure amicable relations with all mankind.

If the currency is already "exaggerously contracted" as Sovereign says how will a boycott on one half the available currency help matters?

The income tax produced $85,789 for the wrong side of the ledger, instead of $10,000,000 or $3,000,000 for the credit side.

A popular 3 per cent loan amounting to $1,200,000 is on trial in Philadelphia and it will be a success. The bonds are offered at par and are made safe by registration. Among the purchasers thus far are many lodges and other beneficial institutions. The $25 bonds are attracting small holders, for Philadelphia bonds have always been salable and convertible into cash.

CYCLE AS AN AMBULANCE.

Berlin Has Harnessed the Wheel to the Needs of Medical Attendance.

A new ambulance carriage has been invented by Dr. Honig of Berlin. It is not drawn by horses or men in the ordinary way, but is propelled by cyclists, and consists of a kind of litter resting on a frame with five wheels, three in front in the form of an ordinary tricycle and two at the back. The drivers accordingly sit one at each end of the litter, which is covered with a removable roof, with little windows and a pneumatic bell, so that the patient can communicate with the drivers. Beneath the litter are boxes for dressing material, instruments for first aid, etc. Dr. Honig suggests that his invention would be useful for small towns for which a horse ambulance is too expensive. It brings the surgeon and assistant surgeon very quickly to the scene of an accident and enables them to remove a patient to the hospital without loss of time. The general opinion here is that the new system will require a greater proficiency in the art of cycling than the majority of medical men possess. The carriage was shown in the drill ground of the fire brigade to surgeons attached to hospitals and the police, as well as to officers of police and fire brigades and to other gentlemen connected with the ambulance service.

BATTLES FOR HER CHILDREN.

A Brave Mother Fights and Finally Conquers a Huge Catamount.

To save her children Mrs. George Higginbotham fought a large catamount. Mr. Higginbotham lives on the Suwanee river, about seven miles from Cedar Keys, Fla., and in the morning he left home, leaving his wife and children alone. In the afternoon Mrs. Higginbotham and the children went out to the sugar-cane patch, the woman carrying her husband's hunting knife. One of the children strayed off, and soon Mrs. Higginbotham heard a scream. She rushed to the scene and found that a large catamount had knocked the child down and was standing over it. The animal immediately left the child and attacked the mother. It sprang at the woman and tore her face and neck horrible with its sharp claws. The mother plunged the knife into the catamount repeatedly with no apparent effect. Finally she dealt the beast a savage blow with the knife and fainted. The last blow reached the catamount's heart, and as the woman fell unconscious the animal dropped dead. The children called the neighbors and they found Mrs. Higginbotham lying unconscious on her breast. Mrs. Higginbotham was frightfully torn and may not recover. The child stricken down by the beast was uninjured. The catamount weighed about eighty pounds.

Argon and Helium.

Two discoveries have recently been made by Lord Rayleigh, of England, which prove, to paraphrase Shakespeare, that there are more things on earth than the scientists in their philosophy have ever dreamed of. First comes the startling information that day after day and year after year we have been taking into our lungs a gas of whose existence we have been wholly ignorant. The discovery of this heretofore unknown atmospheric constituent, which has been named "argon," meaning idle, was announced at a recent meeting of the British Association. Subsequent researches have proved beyond a doubt its presence in the air, and, in consequence, some time-honored scientific beliefs are in danger of being overthrown. It would seem that Lord Rayleigh should at least have given the scientific world time to recover from the surprise caused by his first discovery before unearthing and proclaiming another startling scientific fact; but, regardless of the nervous system of the scientists, he has just announced that in a mineral from Norway he has found helium, a gas which heretofore has been thought to have a home only in the sun and a few of the stars. Whatever other results this discovery may have, it gives new reason for believing that the sun and the planets, the earth among them, are alike in composition, and originated under the operation of a common law. Although the finding of helium is perhaps the more interesting from a popular standpoint, the fact that argon has been brought to light is probably of greater practical importance. It is possible that the gas plays a vital part in respiration and other processes in man. If this be the case, accurate knowledge of it may open new lines of treatment and research in the practice of medicine.

Paper Cans.

Cans made of paper pulp are being introduced to take the place of tin cans for containing all kinds of preserved products. The occasional cases of poisoning from canned goods are due to the contents becoming tainted through the cans not being air tight. Many millions of tin cans are used annually by canned goods factories in this country, and such cases of injury from tainted goods are comparatively rare; but because it is possible, through slight defects in the solder, or minute breaks in the cans, for such danger to result, the canners have been looking for a satisfactory substitute for tin. It is believed that this has at last been found in the paper pulp cans. They are oil-proof as well as water-proof, will not expand or contract, and will stand as much rough usage in shipment as tin cans, and perhaps more.

Hoist by His Own Petard.

Dourai, France, Aug. 5.—During the fetes in the mining district of Aniche, to celebrate the jubilee of M. Vuillemin, manager of the Aniche Colliery Company, an anarchist named Decoux, in the crowd, fired five revolver shots at M. Vuillemin while he was leaving the church. Three of them took effect, though the wounds they inflicted were not serious. Directly afterward a tremendous explosion was heard and Decoux's body was hurled several yards, while ten of the bystanders were thrown to the floor, injured by the explosion. Decoux had been carrying a bomb beneath his coat which was prematurely exploded.

Debs Attacks the Old Unions.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 5.—A circular has been issued from the headquarters of the American Railway Union which, after treating of various business matters, assails the old brotherhoods and the latter's grand officers. The circular is addressed to the local unions and is signed by Eugene V. Debs as president. The unions are urged to dedicate Labor day, Sept. 2, to a mighty protest against the action of the United States court "by which trial by jury has been abrogated and civil liberty bludgeoned to death." This is in connection with the general movement among labor organizations to so observe the day this year.

Immense Trust Formed.

New York, Aug. 5.—Manufacturers of newspaper have cemented their interests by establishing a "union company," representing $35,000,000 capital. It is to have an advisory committee, which will regulate each company's output of paper and the price of the same, and also the cost of the raw material to be used in its manufacture.

SAK OF A WAR SHIP FORMED HIS CANE

JUDGE BENNETT LOSES A PRIZED MEMENTO.

His Early Days Were Spent Around Sackett's Harbor, N. Y., and the Walking Stick Was Made From Timber of a Famous Man of War
Built There.

JUDGE JOHN R. BENNETT has lost a cane that he valued highly—a cane associated with the war of 1814 and the timbers were cut in the woods. Twenty-nine days later work was stopped. She was then almost ready for the riggers, but the necessity for her construction existed no longer. Her plans called for 112 guns and she would have been a fit flag ship for Commodore Perry's fleet. Judge Bennett was born near Sackett's Harbor, practiced law there and was familiar with tales of the participants in the Sackett's Harbor fight. His uncle, Spicer by name, was in the battle. Stopping a spent cannon ball as it rolled up the beach he shouted: "Catching their ball puts them out," and loaded the missile into an American cannon. It was fired and did great damage to a British ship. National spirit ran high around Sackett's Harbor and Judge Bennett has always valued his cane highly, not only because it was a gift but because of the patriotic associations.

GROCERY wagons and grocery clerks were plentiful about the Leyden house yesterday afternoon. The "excitement" was a ball game between a Janesville nine, composed of the following: Skelly, Dermody, Reichter, Murphy, Flaherty, Courtney, Furey, Joyce and Buggs; and the Leyden house stars, which resulted in the defeat of the Janesville nine by a score of 22 to 6.

Cotton Factory Fight is Alred Before Judge Phelps.

Whether or not John Joyce was justified in throwing a chunk of coal at Simon Macron, a Syrian fellow-employee at the cotton mill, and cutting a gash in the Syrian's head, was the question that was busy Judge Phelps today. Joyce was charged with assault and battery, and the prosecution was the result of a rumput at the mill the other day. Macron claimed that Joyce, and others, were trying to make him give up his position in the factory, while Joyce alleged that Macron chased him with a drawn stilette. District Attorney Jackson conducted the prosecution, while T. S. Nolan appeared for the defense. The trial was concluded this afternoon, the defendant being found not guilty.

Freight Car Crashes Through the Coal Shed and Does Considerable Damage

The south end of the C. & N. W. elevated coal shed looked like a kindling pile today. The shed stands high in the air and loaded coal cars are run up a steep incline. The day crew Saturday left an empty box car at the south end of the shed, and when the night crew sent a number of loaded cars up, they drove the empty car clear through the end, breaking strong iron and timbers as if they were straws. The car was also wrecked, and the wrecking crew have been at work all day straightening up things.

RAN THEIR HORSE INTO THE RIVER

JANESVILLE COUPLE HAVE A NARROW ESCAPE.

While Heading For the Burr Robbins Farm, They Drove Off the Steep Bank Near the Doty Light Company's Plant Into the Rock—Three Children in Peril.

People who happened to be in the vicinity of the Doty Light & Power Company's plant at Monterey, heard a great splash yesterday afternoon, and in an instant later they saw a horse attached to an overturned buggy flopping about in the river. They also saw a much bedraggled young lady wading ashore, while a man who was soaking wet, both inside and out, followed her. The occurrence was one that might just as well have ended with a drowning as not. The horse was hired at a livery stable at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The couple drove about the city and decided to cross the river to the Burr Robbins' place. Something seemed to have clouded their vision about this time, for instead of driving over the Monterey bridge, they started to cut out a new route for themselves.

Road Was "No Thoroughfare."

Leading to the Doty Company's power house is a road that is seldom used. Willow trees grow along side of it and a small bridge crosses the road way. It was through this place that the horse was driven at a rapid pace. The people heard the animal galloping over the planks, and knowing that there was no road at that point, hastened out to see what was the matter. They didn't have to wait long. The horse rushed off the bridge planking, and over the steep bank into the river. As the buggy slid down the steep bank, the girl leaped out into the water and walked ashore, but the man stayed by the conveyance. The buggy was overturned in the scramble and the man made his escape also. Then the couple "took to the woods" and left the horse to its fate, but a telephone message was sent to the stable and the horse and buggy were pulled out. The buggy was broken up some, but if the water had not been exceptionally low, it would have been a case of "sink or swim."

Three Children in Peril.

Chief Acheson heard this morning that three youngsters were caught on a trestle near Afton by a train Saturday afternoon and narrowly escaped death. None of them seemed to be over ten years of age and they were dragging a toy wagon containing a make-believe camping outfit. They were half way across the trestle when the train came in sight. All three had sense enough to lie flat on the ties at the edge of the trestle and the train cleared them. Brakes had been set hard before the trestle was reached and the youngsters were just getting up, howling at the top of their lungs when train men ran back.

"We live just back here and we want to go home," bawled one, and his wish was gratified.

MONTEREY PEARLS SOUGHT BY MANY

THE LUCK OF OLAF ANDERSON STARTS THE CRAZE.

Mud in the Marsh Poked, Paddled and Pounded by Searchers For Bivalves —Twenty Dollars Is Refused for a Pearl Found Near the Lower Cotton Mill.

Pearls come as a blessing to temper the evil of low water at Monterey.

Where is Albany now?

Not until yesterday was the Monterey marsh dredged in earnest. Early Sunday forenoon, however, it was whispered that rich finds were being made and Western avenue turned out en masse. All day long men and boys waded in the mud.

The pearl that started the excitement was a finely colored specimen half the size of a pea. Olaf Anderson, the owner, showed it to several jewelers today and refused a $20 offer.

Before the day ended a number of smaller pearls had been taken out, low water making the claims easy to reach. Several people have had clam rakes made today and are hunting systematically. They say the Sugar river harvest will be duplicated.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 5.—When questioned about the report that he would call another extra session of the legislature, Governor Altgeld said: "I have given the subject no consideration whatever, and I shall certainly not reconvene the legislature unless I shall first feel reasonably certain that it would do some good to the state or unless some unforeseen contingency should arise."

A HOUSTON SENSATION.

The First Fair Woman Bicyclist Seen Upon the Streets.

Lightly she tripped down the stairs, almost as noiselessly as if unshod, and stood upon the last step watching a man move a bicycle from the entrance of a staircase and place another within her reach, says a Houston special. She glided to the edge of the sidewalk, mounted her wheel, and he followed. Just then a voice from a group of men said, "Look at that!" All turned their eyes in the direction indicated and beheld a young woman wearing bloomers, a cap, blouse waist closely fitting, black stockings, and a pair of wheeling slippers. It was 8:30 o'clock p. m. and she had come down from above a Main street store, and with her escort started toward the auditorium, out Main street. As she led the way and passed along men stepped out from the curbing onto the driveway and with their staring eyes followed her along the street as far as the electric light gave any satisfaction of seeing. It was the first of her sex seen on the streets of Houston in bloomers riding a bicycle, and to say it created a sensation is drawing it mildly. From both sides of the street men stepped out and looked and exclaimed, "Well!" But nobody had a chance to tell of it as news on the streets afterward, because everybody seemed to have seen it. No sooner would one start out by saying, "I saw something just now that—" when the other fellow would break in, "Yes, I saw it, too." It created a genuine sensation along the street and was the talk of the gossips most of the evening, and many watched for the lady's return, but some had to give it up, as they hadn't the time.

THE OLD GENTLEMAN'S IDEA.

It Showed His Consistency Even If It Did Emphasize His Peculiarities.

There are so many sham misogynists about in this affectedly cynical age that one can hardly help extending a measure of admiration to the thoroughness and consistency of a certain rich old Viennese bachelor whose death was announced the other day. In the case of this highly eccentric old gentleman horror and dread of our unfortunate sex had become a positive mania, for it is recorded of him that whenever he went to a place of public entertainment he took the precaution of booking three seats, in the center of which he seated himself, leaving those on each side vacant, so as to avoid all risk of being obliged to sit by a woman! He even carried his extraordinary craze beyond the grave, by leaving instructions that no woman was to be buried either to the right or left of him, even if it should be necessary to purchase three graves in order to insure the carrying out of his strange behest. One cannot help suspecting that there must have been some painful romance in his life to account for this extraordinary attitude of mind. Perhaps the most curious thing in the whole strange story is the statement that this agreeable old gentleman, left behind him a large bundle of letters, which he had grimly indorsed: "Attempts by my family to put me under the yoke of matrimony." As he appears to have been a very wealthy man, this alleged action on the part of his relatives seems by no means easy to explain.

AN UNUSUAL SIGHT.

The Man Bent in Reverent Prayer Before a Window.

It was a singularly touching scene. The busy crowds on Barclay street stopped laughing, but lingered reverentially, says New York Recorder. A man stood before the window of one of the big Catholic goods stores. Within were several life-size figures of the Saviour and in the center sat the Virgin Mary, with the Christ-child in her arms. The man outside stood with his head bared and slightly bowed. His hands hung down by his sides. In one he held his old cloth cap. His honest, rugged face was full of homely intelligence. His clothes were poor. On his feet he wore the heavy boots of the street laborer. They were gray with the clay of the trench. But his posture was noble. His was no ostentatious worship, though he chose the crowded street for his adoration. He did not bend a knee. There was only a slight inclination of the big, well-formed head, just tinged with whitening hairs. No muttered prayer passed his lips. He asked no favor of God or man. His was the devout worship of an earnest man unconscious of his surroundings. And so he stood for full five minutes, while the jostling crowds passed him wondering by, surging gently toward the curb that they might not by rough contact disturb his solemn meditations.

What Ails Sheppard?

Medical skill is baffled by an affliction which has befallen George Sheppard, a McKeesport, Pa., mill man. Last Thursday night Sheppard retired in good health. Late in the night he was aroused by a stinging sensation in the neck, under the right ear. He thought a mosquito had bitten him, but the pain in his neck increased, and he arose and lighted the lamp. He felt dizzy and faint and thought he would arouse his wife, but, to his horror, he discovered he had been bereft of the power of speech. Doctors have been in constant attendance since, but admit the case puzzles them. They call it paralysis of the vocal muscles. Sheppard has recovered his general health, but little knots have formed on either side of his neck. It is feared his speech and hearing are forever lost.

How Barbers Are Made.

A barber had been describing his methods of teaching his apprentices. After lathering, he says, "the great lesson is to learn how to handle the razor with firmness and lightness, and once that is known, it's half the battle won. I first practice my lad on a glass soda-water bottle. He has to lather it thickly, and with the razor only, get all the soap off and make it quite glossy again. That gives him practice in rounding a surface safely; when he can do that, I make him lather and shave a broom handle clean, without showing any cuts in the wood. The next few lessons are devoted to shaving a hairy surface, such as clipped rabbit skin, or even a hairy vegetable leaf. This wants a deal of care. Then he tries his hand on me."

Young Bather's Mishap.

Minnie Young, 12 years old, of Williamsburg, N. Y., while bathing in one of the free baths there, met with a singular accident. She fastened her bathing suit with a three-inch darning needle, and, as she was climbing out of the water on the steps, the needle ran full length into her side. Minnie fainted. She was removed to a hospital, where it is said her condition is critical.

SUNDAY'S SERMON
BY DR. TALMAGE

"MAN OVERBOARD" THE SUBJECT OF THE LATEST ONE.

Arise Call Upon Thy God, If So Be That God Will Think Upon Us That We Perish Not—Jonah 1:6—For Summer Pleasure Seekers.

OD TOLD JONAH to go to Nineveh on an unpleasant errand. He would not get away from his duty by putting to sea. With pack under his arm, I find him on his way to Joppa, a sea-port. He goes down among the shipping, and says to the men lying around the docks, "Which of these vessels sails today?" The sailors answer, "Yonder is a vessel going to Tarshish. I think, if you hurry, you may get on board her." Jonah steps on board the rough craft, asks how much the fare is, and pays it. Anchor is weighed, sails are hoisted, and the rigging begins to battle in the strong breeze of the Mediterranean. Joppa is an exposed harbor, and it does not take long for the vessel to get out on the broad sea. The sailors like what they call a "spanking breeze," and the plunge of the vessel from the crest of a tall wave is exhilarating to those at home on the deep. But the strong breeze becomes a gale, the gale a hurricane. The affrighted passengers ask the captain if he ever saw anything like this before. "Oh, yes," he says; "this is nothing." Mariners are slow to admit danger to landsmen. But, after a while, crash goes the mast, and the vessel pitches so far "a-beam's-end" there is a fear she will not be righted. The captain answers few questions, and orders the throwing out of boxes and bundles, and of so much of the cargo as they can get at. The captain at last confesses there is but little hope, and tells the passengers they had better go to praying. It is seldom that a sea-captain is an Atheist. He knows that there is a God, for he has seen him at every point of latitude between Sandy Hook and Queenstown. Captain Moody, commanding the "Cuba" of the Cunard line, at Sunday service led the music and sang like a Methodist. The captain of this Mediterranean craft, having set the passengers to praying, goes around examining the vessel at every point. He descends into the cabin to see whether in the strong wrestling of the waves, the vessel had sprung a leak, and he finds Jonah asleep. Jonah had had a wearisome tramp, and had spent many sleepless nights about questions of duty, and he is so sound asleep that all the thunder of the storm and the screaming of the passengers does not disturb him. The captain lays hold of him, and begins to shake him out of his unconsciousness with the cry, "Don't you see that we are all going to the bottom? Wake up and go to praying, if you have any God to go to. What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call upon thy God, if so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not." The rest of the story I will not rehearse, for you know it well. To appease the sea they threw Jonah overboard.

Learn that the devil takes a man's money and then sets him down in a poor landing-place. The Bible says he paid his fare to Tarshish. But see him get out. The sailors bring him to the side of the ship, lift him over "the guards," and let him drop with a loud splash in the sea. He paid his fare all the way to Tarshish, but did not get the worth of his money. Neither does any one who turns his back on his duty, and does that which is not right.

There is a young man who, during the past year, has spent a large part of his salary in carousal. What has he gained by it? A soiled reputation, a half-starved purse, a dissipated look, a petulant temper, a disturbed conscience. The manacles of one or two bad habits that are pressing tighter will keep on until they wear to the bone. You paid your fare to Tarshish, but you have been set down in the midst of a sea of disquietude and perplexity.

One hundred dollars for Sunday horse-hire.

One hundred dollars for wine-supers.

One hundred dollars for frolics that shall be nameless!

Making four hundred dollars for his damnation!

Instead of being in Tarshish now, he is in the middle of the Mediterranean. Here is a literary man, tired of the faith of his fathers, who resolves to launch out into what is called Free-Thinking. He buys Theodore Parker's works for twelve dollars; Renan's Life of Christ for one dollar and fifty cents; Andrew Jackson Davis's works for twenty dollars. Goes to hear infidels talk at the clubs, and to see spiritualism at the table-rapping. Talks glibly of David, the Psalmist, as an old libertine; of Paul as a wild enthusiast; and of Christ as a decent kind of a man—a little weak in some respects, but almost as good as himself. Talks smilingly of Sunday as a good day to put a little extra blacking on one's boots; and of Christians as, for the most part, hypocrites; and of eternity as "the great to be." "The everlasting now," or "the infinite what is it." Some day he gets his feet very wet, and finds himself that night chilly. The next morning has a hot mouth and is headachy. Sends word to the store that he will not be there today. Bathes his feet; has mustard plasters; calls the doctor. The medical man says aside, "This is going to be a bad case of congestion of the lungs." Voice fails. Children must be sent downstairs, or sent to the neighbors, to keep the house quiet. You say, "Send for the minister." But no; he does not believe in ministers. You say, "Read the Bible to him." No; he does not believe in the Bible. A lawyer comes in, and, sitting by his bedside, writes a document that begins, "In the name of God, Amen. I, being of sound mind, do make this my last will and testament." It is certain where the sick man's body will be in less than a week. It is quite certain who will get his property. But what will become of his soul? It will go into "the great to be," or "the everlasting now," or "the infinite what is it." His soul is in deep waters, and the wind is blowing great guns. Death cries, "Overboard with the unbeliever!" A splash! He goes to the bottom. He paid five dollars for his ticket to Tarshish when he bought the infidel books. He landed in perdition!

Every farthing you spend in sin Satan will swindle you out of. He promises you shall have thirty per cent or a great dividend. He lies. He will sink all the capital. You may pay full fare to some sinful success, but you will never get to Tarshish.

Learn how soundly men will sleep in the midst of danger. The worst sinner on shipboard, considering the light he had, was Jonah. He was a member of the Church, while they were heathen. The sailors were engaged in their lawful calling, following the sea. The merchants on board, I suppose, were going down to Tarshish to barter; but Jonah, notwithstanding his Christian profession, was flying from duty. He was sound asleep in the cabin. He has been motionless for hours—his arms and feet in the same posture as when he lay down—his breast heaving with deep respiration. Oh! how could he sleep! What if the ship struck a rock! What if it sprang a leak! What if the clumsy Oriental craft should capsize! What would become of Jonah?

So men sleep soundly now amid perils infinite. In almost every place, I suppose, the Mediterranean might be sounded, but no line is long enough to fathom the profound beneath every impatient man. Plunging a thousand fathoms down, you cannot touch bottom. Eternity beneath him, around him! Rocks close by, and whirlpools, and hot-breathed Levanters; yet sound sleep! We try to wake him up, but fail. The great surges of warning break over the hurricane-deck—the gong of warning sounds through the cabin—the bell rings. "Awake!" cry a hundred voices; yet sound asleep in the cabin.

In the year 1775, the captain of a Greenland whaling vessel found himself at night surrounded by icebergs, and "lay-to" until morning, expecting every moment to be ground to pieces. In the morning he looked about, and saw a ship near by. He hailed it. No answer. Getting into a boat with some of the crew, he pushed out for the mysterious craft. Getting near by, he saw through the port-hole a man at a stand, as though keeping a log-book. He hailed him. No answer. He went on board the vessel, and found the man sitting at the log-book frozen to death. The log-book was dated 1762, showing that the vessel had been wandering for thirteen years among the ice. The sailors were found frozen among the hammocks, and others in the cabin. For thirteen years this ship had been carrying its burden of corpses.

So from this Gospel craft today, I desecrate voyagers for eternity. I cry, "Ship ahoy! ship ahoy!" No answer. They float about, tossed and ground by the icebergs of sin, hoisting no sail for heaven. I go on board. I find all asleep. It is a frozen sleep. O that my Lord Jesus would come aboard and lay hold of the wheel, and steer the craft down into the warm Gulf Stream of his mercy! Awake, thou that sleepest! Arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee life.

Again! Notice that men are aroused by the most unexpected means. If Jonah had been told one year before that a heathen sea-captain would ever awaken him to a sense of danger, he would have scoffed at the idea; but here it is done. So now, men in strange ways are aroused from spiritual stupor. A profane man is brought to conviction by the shocking blasphemy of a comrade. A man attending church, and hearing a sermon from the text, "The ox knoweth his owner," etc., goes home unimpressed; but, crossing his barnyard, an ox comes up and licks his hand, and he says, "There it is now—the ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib," but I do not know God." The careless remark of a teamster has led a man to thoughtfulness and heaven. The child's remark, "Father, they have prayers at Uncle's house—why don't we have them?" has brought salvation to the dwelling.

By strangest way and in the most unexpected manner men are awakened. The gardener of the Countess of Huntingdon was convicted of sin by hearing the Countess on the opposite side of the walk talk about Jesus. John Hard-oak was aroused by a dream in which he saw the last day, and the Judge sitting, and heard his own name called with terrible emphasis: "John Hard-oak, come to judgment!" The Lord has a thousand ways of waking up Jonah. Would that the messengers of mercy might now find their way down into the sides of the ship, and that many who are unconsciously rocking in the awful tempest of their sin might hear the warning, "What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, and call upon thy God!"

Again! Learn that a man may wake up too late. If, instead of sleeping, Jonah had been on his knees confessing his sins from the time he went on board the craft, I think God would have saved him from being thrown overboard. But he woke up too late. The tempest is full blast, and the sea, in convulsion, is lashing itself, and nothing will stop it now but the overthrow of Jonah.

So men sometimes wake up too late. The last hour has come. The man has no more idea of dying than I have of dropping down this moment. The rigging is all white with the foam of death. How chill the night is! "I must die," he says, "yet not ready. I must push out upon this awful sea, but have nothing with which to pay my fare. The white caps! The darkness! The hurricane! How long have I been sleeping? Whole days, and months, and years. I am quite awake now. I see everything, but it is too late." Invisible hands take him up. He struggles to get loose. In vain. They bring his soul to the verge. They let it down over the side. The winds howl. The sea opens its frothing jaws to swallow. He has gone forever. And while the canvas cracked and the yards rattled and the ropes thumped, the sea took up the funeral dirge, playing with open diapason of midnight storm, "Because I have called, and ye refused; I have stretched out my hand and no man regarded; but ye have set at naught all my counsel, and would none of my reproof; I also will laugh at your calamity; I will mock when your fear cometh."

Now, lest any of you should make this mistake, I address you in the words of the Mediterranean sea-captain: "What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call upon thy God, if so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not." If you have a God, you had better call upon him. Do you say, "I have no God?" Then you had better call upon your father's God. When your father was in trouble, who did he fly to? You heard him, in his old days, tell about some terrible exposure in a snow-storm, or at sea, or in battle, or among midnight garroters, and how he escaped. Perhaps twenty years before you were born, your father made sweet acquaintance with God. There is something in the worn pages of the Bible he used to read which makes you think your father had a God. In the old religious books lying around the house, there are passages marked with a lead pencil—passages which make you think your father was not a godless man, but that, on that dark day when he lay in the back room dying, he was ready—all ready. But perhaps your father was a bad man—prayerless, and a blasphemer, and you never think of him now without a shudder. He worshiped the world or his own appetites. Do not then, I beg of you, call upon your father's God, but call on your mother's God. I think she was good. You remember when your father came home drunk late on a cold night, how patient your mother was. You often heard her pray. She used to sit by the hour meditating, as though she were thinking of some good, warm place, where it never gets cold, and where the bread does not fail, and staggering steps never come. You remember her now, as she sat, in cap and spectacles, reading her Bible Sunday afternoons. What good advice she used to give you! How black and terrible the hole in the ground looked to you when, with two ropes, they let her down to rest in the graveyard! Ah! I think from your looks that I am on the right track. Awake, O sleeper, and call upon thy mother's God.

But perhaps both your father and mother were depraved. Perhaps your cradle was rocked by sin and shame, and it is a wonder that from such a starting you have come to respectability. Then don't call upon the God of either of your parents, I beg of you.

But you have children. You know God kindled those bright eyes, and rounded those healthy limbs, and set beating within their breast an immortality. Perhaps in the belief that somehow it would be for the best, you have taught them to say an evening prayer, and when they kneel beside you, and fold their little hands, and look up, their faces all innocence and love, you know that there is a God somewhere about in the room.

I think I am on the right track at last. Awake, O sleeper, and call upon the God of thy children. May he set these little ones to pulling at thy heart until they charm thee to the same God to whom to-night they will say their little prayers!

But, alas! alas! some of these men and women are unmoved by the fact that their father had a God, that their mother had a God, but they have no God. All pious example to them for nothing. All the divine goodness for nothing. All warning for nothing. They are sound asleep in the side of the ship, though the sea and sky are in mad wrestle.

Many years ago, a man, leaving his family in Massachusetts, sailed from Boston to China, to trade there. On the coast of China, in the midst of a night of storm, was shipwrecked. The adventurer was washed up on the beach senseless—all his money gone. He had to beg in the streets of Canton to keep from starving. For two years there was no communication between himself and family. They supposed him dead. He knew not but that his family was dead. He had gone out as a captain. He was too proud to come back as a private sailor. But after a while he choked down his pride and sailed for Boston. Arriving there, he took an evening train for the center of the state, where he had left his family. Taking the stage from the depot, and riding a score of miles, he got home. He says that, going up in front of the cottage in the bright moonlight, the place looked to him like heaven. He rapped on the window and the affrighted servant let him in. He went to the room where his wife and child were sleeping. He did not dare to wake them for fear of the shock. Bending over to kiss his child's cheek, a tear fell upon the wife's face, and she wakened, and he said, "Mary!" and she knew his voice, and there was an indescribable scene of welcome, and joy, and thanksgiving to God.

To-day I know that many of you are sea-tossed, and driven by sin in a worse storm than that which came down on the coast of China, and yet I pray God that you may, like the sailor, live to go home. In the house of many mansions your friends are waiting to meet you. They are wondering why you do not come. Escaped from the shipwrecks of earth, may you at last go in! It will be a bright night—a very bright night as you put your thumb on the latch of that door. Once in, you will find the old family faces sweeter than when you last saw them, and there it will be found that he who was your father's God, and your mother's God, and your children's God, is your own most blessed Redeemer, to whom be glory and dominion throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

Come in and get the boys a pair of shoes now they are so cheap any one can buy them. Lloyd & Son.
